For the second consecutive year, students at The John Marshall Law School won first place at the Albert R. Mugel National Tax Competition. Third-year law students Patrick Bushell and Ryanne Dent won top honors against 11 other teams in the March 2 competition, held in Buffalo, N.Y. Dent also was named “best oral advocate” and Bushell took fourth place in the “oral advocate” category. They were coached by professor Arthur Acevedo.